

June 2014

You are such a blessing to so many women. Blessed women you have touched on a regular basis. Blessed women who will never know who has contributed to their lives. Blessed women who have been given a second chance by a stranger she will never meet. Blessed women you have sown into so she will succeed this time. Blessed women who attend JAVAS (Just Another Victory Among Sisters) meetings. On the 21st, we met to celebrate freedom and victories.

Pamela is a business major and has been manager of several stores. I met Pam on the streets of Nashville. She had served time in a FL prison and was living at the women's mission. We got Pam into one of the facilities that we support with mentors. Pam is celebrating sixty days clean of alcohol. I know if you hadn't given she would have died on the streets. Blessed is Pam!!!

Princess has been at the halfway house for six months. She is noted for her great cooking skills. She cooks for her house and they have all testified to her ability to set a good tasting table. She starts culinary school at Nashville Tech next month. She is going to get a career thanks to you. Blessed is Princess!!!

Latrece came to me the first time in prison. We have stayed connected upon her release. Just knowing people care, has made a difference in this release. She got a raise and hired permanently at her job. We meet on a regular basis just to touch base. You have helped set up those meetings. Blessed is Latrece!!!

Thanks again for listening to the Lord. Thanks for blessing so many more than these three.

Blessings to you,

Vicki
